When running the 32-bit version of wine, the app works fine. Running the 32-bit version of wine did not fix the problem. I have found no instructions for using the correct version of wine. Re: My iPhone is freezing and turning off I had an issue like this once, but unfortunately I am not able to remember exactly what I did to fix it. Do a restore on your phone. Check to make sure your phone hasn't had any recent changes. Hint: if the restore didn't work, restart your phone. Then, in the settings, do a factory reset, and then restore again. That seemed to work. I'm not sure why, though. And, make sure your iTunes is up to date. The new iTunes will update your phone's software, and that can help fix some issues. Re: My iPhone is freezing and turning off How do you know your phone was not changed? iTunes will not download apps, however, it will update apps and such if you click on 'check for 1d6a3396d6
